Annual Publication of the
SENIOR CLASSES, ARTS HIGH SCHOOL
550 High Street, Newark, N. J.

DR. FREDERICK C. SEAMSTER
B.A., M.A., Ph.D.

Principal

MRS. BEATRICE GELLER
B.A., M.A.

Vice-Principal

Between the covers of an encyclopedia is the treasure of human existence: knowledge. Without it, people would wander aimlessly about this sphere called earth. So also would we students if we didn't know Dr. Seamster and Mrs. Geller. These two have always advised us wisely. Their offices are like open books—the sources of much knowledge and the answers to many of our problems. Their interest in the intellectual, social, and cultural development of the entire student body is second to none. They have proved this over and over again by their sincere participation in all phases of school life.

Miss Fortunato and Miss Hayes believe that two heads are better than one.

Mrs. Geller's friendly appearance invites confidence.

"Of course there is school today," replies Miss Fortunato.

Yes, Mrs. Geller, school does have its durable satisfactions.

So what? We can always cut another one.

Mary . . . eh, Mary and a . . . eh, eh, — a little lamb!

*The crime isn't worth the punishment
(6 detentions), fellows.*

It isn't the public address system; it's the physical make-up of your ear, dear.

Somebody's in for a shock!

THE LOWLAND SEA

Time, hard work, and patience! These are the virtues the performers in "The Lowland Sea" possessed. Not one performer will ever regret the gruelling months of rehearsals needed to present the folk-opera. Their reward for a job well done was the audience's receptive and enthusiastic response to the performance.

"The Lowland Sea" is written out of the sea and sea songs—of dunes, of harbors, of voyaging, and of waiting. The story is about Johnny Dee, his sweetheart, Dorie Davis, and their misfortune. While at sea, Nathaniel Hazard asks Dorie to be his wife. Dorie, deeply in love with Johnny, refuses him. After Johnny has been away for a long time, there are rumors that Johnny is lost at sea. The truth is that he has been ill and has been moved from his ship. Believing Johnny dead, Dorie marries Nathaniel. To everyone's surprise, Johnny returns home. When he learns of his beloved's marriage, Johnny goes back to the sea never to return again.

Ronald Seely, as Johnny, is comforted by Doc Leonard Rumbinas and Captain Edward Shelton.

Arts High's version of a wind tunnel? No, just our chorus really giving what it takes to make a show go.

"My name is . . . I represent the club. You should all join. Let's hope my mind isn't blank when my turn comes!"

Mrs. Longly extends a hearty welcome to the freshmen.

Looks like that "Buddy" system is paying off for these two.

Five days a week, eight periods a day, thirty clubs to join. Wow! What happened to the forty hour week?

Not only is Dr. Seamster a terrific principal but his jokes are "out of this world."

FRESHMEN

Freshman year is like a mystery book, chuck-full of spine-tingling events. Each page contains the circumstantial evidence that mark freshmen as freshmen. The holding of a swimming pool membership card, a free cafeteria ticket, or a special slip excusing the holder from class that day are the undeniable facts.

From this first entrance into the whirlpool of high school mysteries, freshman inquisitiveness knows no bounds. Where is the cafeteria? What floor is the swimming pool on? How can I meet that handsome senior? Are teachers human? Do I have to take four years of English? What! You get a detention every time you're late? Only three minutes between classes? These are the questions that innocent freshmen persist in asking. They're happy when they know the answers! ! !

Freshmen are the most lovable, though puzzling creatures. Their unpredictable antics and exuberant spirits steal your heart. Would YOU want freshmen any other way?

Sophomores

A humorous book is a tonic to lighten the spirits of one who is dejected. To a sophomore the humor comes at just the right moment. Now he is free from his fears and anxieties, the mystery of the freshman year is over. There is time to relax and enjoy every day. Looking at the incoming class with amusement, he recalls his own floundering and learns to laugh at his own mistakes. Life is now taking a new turn in molding his personality. By looking at the happier side it is easier to accept the duties and responsibilities he must assume. Lighthearted and seemingly carefree, a sophomore is able to enjoy life to the fullest.

1959

In four short years these Seniors must be prepared to face the world. Their careers are in the planning stage. In the search for appropriate occupations, they've found biographies increasingly valuable. They have begun to realize that trials and triumphs are a part of the climb up the ladder of success. They've learned that everyone has to work assiduously to gain his goal. These have been trying times, times of fun and times of hard work. All of the experiences they have had, and the ones yet to come will contribute to success in their roles as mature, responsible men and women—the hope of tomorrow.

OUR SENIOR "B" CLASS ADVISORS

RUTH ABOS, B.A., M.A.

English

As our counselor and adviser, Miss Abos has inspired and aided us in planning for our futures. As our friend and confidante she has supplied us with many laughs and wise words of advice or warning. Frequently, she would mention some little thing at just the right time to set us back on the road to success. She flies jet-propelled through the halls to keep four appointments in five minutes. At the basketball games she becomes so enthusiastic that she may well be counted as one of her cheerleading squad members. Her friendliness, consideration and perseverance have guided and helped us in becoming independent and respectable young citizens.

THERESA DAVID, B.A., M.A.

Spanish

We've affectionately applied the name "The Eye" to Miss David for the stern, piercing expression which she employs to conceal a warm and happy heart. Her friendly advice and her understanding of our adolescent problems have gained our respect and admiration. She has taught us to respect the opinions of others and has encouraged us to develop self-reliance and a sense of maturity. We sincerely appreciate the concern she has shown in our social affairs and the industry with which she has worked with us to achieve our goals.

The wonders and beauties of the majestic earth are spread out in an inviting panorama before these graduates. Although it will not be possible for all of them to travel to distant lands, neither will it be excusable for them to be ignorant of other people and other places. Many thrilling books have been written for the benefit of the armchair traveler. These books are set aside in a special section of the library within easy reach of everyone. A new dimension of contrast and understanding, that is so necessary today, will be brought to them. On the road of life they will come in contact with a variety of people, all seeking distant goals. Those who follow the way with an open mind will be rewarded with a rich and full life. The world is theirs, waiting for the results of new earnest work. If these graduates travel by book alone they will gain an abundance of knowledge. It will be up to them to apply it to benefit all mankind.

SENIOR A

OUR SENIOR "A" ABECEDARIANS

PHILIP CLAMURRO, B.A., M.A.

Mathematics

Mr. Clamurro is a modest man with a dynamic personality and an unlimited knowledge of mathematics. His introduction of a humorous touch in the midst of a complicated math' problem provided motivation, stimulation, and often a welcome diversion. His spontaneous enthusiasm shows through his teaching. The regular classroom activities were often broken by his spontaneous lectures on timely subjects. Mathematics is only one of the many lessons we learn in his classes.

MISS DORIS HUPP B.S.

Art

Although our acquaintance with Miss Hupp came in our senior year, she is no stranger to Arts High, having previously taught here from 1941 to 1943. We will always recall her ready smile and untiring efforts to help us. She handled us as carefully as her extensive antique doll collection and quickly adapted herself to the lively, interesting and sometimes noisy discussions in our congenial homeroom. Her comments often helped us to settle our arguments. We shall always be grateful to her for her sincere interest in our welfare.

CATHERINE S. SWEENEY, R.N., B.S.

Health Education

Mrs. Sweeney has always tried very hard to help our class when we needed assistance. She has nurtured us since our freshman year. "Without a healthy body and mind," Mrs. Sweeney explains, "you cannot achieve success in your chosen profession." Her wide range of knowledge in the field of health has enabled her to answer our questions with understanding and sympathy. We appreciate her sincere and friendly attitude and the help she has unselfishly given us.

LOUIS SPINDLER, B.S., M.A.

Art

Mr. Spindler has a very affable nature. His speech is frequently punctuated with pantomime. In his classes, this teacher-philosopher, has made many shrewd comments on teenage behavior and attitudes. He often satirized them; the strength in his humor has been the wisdom behind it. He has been patient and understanding when we have gone to him with our numerous difficulties. As our class adviser, he has always been particularly interested in our constant practice of democratic principles in all our activities.

ACTIVITIES

With the closing of the eighth period comes the time to put away books of study and take out magazines for recreation and relaxation. From these periodicals we acquire a wealth of information which we put into practice in the organization of a variety of clubs and social functions. Through participation in these activities, students are able to have fun, to exchange ideas, and to make profitable use of their leisure time. Always eager to get the most knowledge out of all undertakings, they are constantly strengthening character, advancing scholastically, absorbing knowledge of good organization, and developing leadership. Every well-rounded student includes some club activity in his schedule.

THE ART SERVICE CLUB

The Art Service Club consists of 16 enthusiastic members dedicated to providing service through Art to the school and the community. In addition, the club renders service to its members by offering opportunities for social and artistic development. Members plan several excursions during the year. Field trips are made to places of art interest both in Newark and New York. Mr. Seymour Landsman is the current advisor to the club.

Seated, left to right: Pat Viniks, Diane Pomerleau, Lynn Ilaria, Judy Bator, Florence Lizerman. First row, standing: Carol Wrubel, Viola Ilaria, Stephine Strelkauskas, Joseph Gualtieri, Stanley Friedman. Third row: James Boyle, John Watts. Lester Barnett, Robert Erbs, Mr. Landsman, Edward Autin.

THE POTTERY CLUB

This club gives students an opportunity to express their creativeness in the mediums of clay and glazes. The expert guidance of Miss Hupp enables the members to produce articles that are decorative as well as worthwhile. The methods of making objects and the acquiring of knowledge of the terminology of a potter make this a profitable activity for all art students.

THE CRAFT CLUB

The students who enjoy making things join the Craft Club. Each session is full of fun and learning. From the base materials, with the help of Mr. Gommoll, the club advisor, students design and make beautiful jewelry of copper, enamel fashioned cuff-links, and scatter pins. Some of their creations are sold at the Christmas Fair each year. Meetings are held every Tuesday afternoon.

MATH CLUB

This enthusiastic group of budding "Einsteins" meets every Wednesday, under the direction of Miss Myerson, to solve the more elusive problems of the universe. The students give biographical sketches of famous mathematicians, solve puzzles and present programs such as "Music and Mathematics", "Art and Mathematics", "Soap Bubbles", and "Fallacies". The Math Club will present an award each term to the senior in the Math Club with the highest average in mathematics.

DANCE CLUB

Mr. Clamurro has organized the newest, liveliest, and most popular club at Arts. Membership in this group provides a wonderful opportunity for students to learn all of the latest dance steps. The instructors are students who know how to dance and who are willing to assist those who do not. This is an enthusiastic group which provides much after-school entertainment and helps students to acquire ease and poise in dancing.

DRAMATICS CLUB

Those students interested in acting find the dramatics club suited to their tastes. After school the members meet with Mrs. Cozzens to act out skits. The emphasis is on technique, stage terminology, personal growth, good sportsmanship, punctuality in attending rehearsals and ingenuity in working out productions with limited equipment. Many of the members are selected to participate in the Christmas Tableaux. Each term the group attends a stage play in New York. The club, filled with interest and enjoyment, is a fine experience for anyone considering acting as a profession.

Drueke's CHESS PRIMER

On Friday afternoon when all the halls of Arts are silent one can hear the dull swish of chessmen at war in 113. Their many minds, under the direction of Miss Ruth Meyerson, are open in battle challenging the wits of teacher and student in the ancient game of war. Ever since the dawn of time man has been a war-like creature, but here, for the purpose of developing quick minds and cool patience, students match their mental abilities in the manipulation of strategies.

STUDENT COUNCIL

SUMPTUOUS SOUFFLES

Viewers are changing TV

The Student Council consists of a legislative and an executive body. It is comprised of two representatives from each homeroom and one from each club sponsored by the Student Council. The members meet once a week to discuss improvements in student government, school problems, etc. The freshman orientations, variety shows, dances, and other social events are some of the many activities supervised by this group. Designated committee members are responsible for the sale of the handbooks, book-covers, and pennants. As part of this year's work the council has been revising the student handbook.

First row, seated, left to right: Angela Carracino, Barbara Green, Gwendolyn Sims, Clyde Kuemmerle. Second row: Eugenia Volz, Barry Zachar, Judy Felipe, Louise Yannuzzi, Carolyn Bayreder, Viola-dey Illaria, Paula Gorski, Marie Galasso, Sophie Sigouris, Sandy Werfel. Third row: Carletta Hamilton, Dagmara Kubinschke, Barbara Stawicki, Rosalie Klotz, Janice Crooms, Vivian Bristol, Marilyn Zondlo, Barbara Moldofsky, Joselyn Melillo, Rosetta Martin, Edward Kleinsorgen, Tony Fazio, Dennis Anniballi, Girard Marino. ### THE BAND

The Arts High School Band is one of the oldest clubs in existence. It can be called together within a minute's notice and has been put to the test on a few occasions. The band plays for semi-annual concerts and for weekly assemblies. It has provided a great deal of entertainment for students here at Arts.

THE ORCHESTRA

The Arts High School Orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Pesile. Never is there a dull moment at his rehearsals. Timely jokes interrupt Beethoven at every third measure. Whenever the orchestra is asked to perform, the members always give a finished performance. One of this season's outstanding selections was "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" which delighted the audience at the January Concert.

T-SQUARE AND TRIANGLE CLUB

Mr. Gannon supervises the T-Square and Triangle Club, which meets each Wednesday in the shop. This activity is primarily for those interested in drafting, because it gives them an opportunity to learn how to read blue-prints, to make architectural drawings to scale, and to recognize and use the proper tools.

The chief function of the Junior Red Cross Council is to help those who cannot help themselves. Each year this group undertakes seasonal projects, such as Christmas favors for nurseries, articles for veterans' institutions, and Easter baskets for children in hospitals. Other projects also turn up during the year. All students are members of the Junior Red Cross. They are invited to come to the council meetings supervised by Miss Kruck every Monday after school in room 318.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

The purpose of the Forum Club is to promote participation and leadership in group actions. Through debates, round-table discussions, and informational lectures, members present diversified programs which build individual confidence, give experience in parliamentary procedure, train capable speakers, develop clear, analytical thinking, and give practice in presenting facts, ideals, and arguments to a group. It has been said that in this current age of democracy, the people have a greater voice in the governing of affairs than ever before. The Forum Club believes that practice can make that voice articulate, persuasive, and logical.

STAGE CREW

Arts High stage crew members under Mr. Misurell's direction are always arranging lights, supplying proper sound, or helping the art department, in a small way, to design settings for all school functions. They also have the job of showing movies and slides to individual classes at the request of subject teachers. One of their less favored duties is cleaning up after a show or performance. The stage crew members willingly give their after-school hours during variety shows, Christmas programs, and opera rehearsals.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The Photography Club is one of the most interesting of the extracurricular activities. Mr. Misurell is the advisor this term. All of the aspects of photography are discussed. Students learn to use proper lighting, to take better pictures, and to develop them properly. They usually go on field trips to observe professional studios in operation. Members watch all of the photographic processes: developing, enlarging, coloring, special effects, etc.

Under the expert direction of Mr. Pickett and Mrs. Shapiro, the Chorus and the Girls' Glee Club enjoy both their classes and their after school rehearsals. Sessions are always lively and melodious. These groups give command performances for community organizations in addition to performing in concerts and assembly programs. Whatever the occasion, the students always serve with distinction. Many of them have become members of the All-State Chorus of New Jersey.

The Library Guild members help Miss Yucker to run the library efficiently. These boys and girls give up their free periods, as well as time before or after school, to assist students in finding the information they are seeking. There are also social good times. The training provides cultural background and is particularly valuable to those interested in becoming librarians.

Although Mr. Yablick came to Arts High in February, he immediately assumed a role in our extracurricular program. Under his enthusiastic leadership the Radio Club has continued in existence. Members enjoy working with the equipment and learning the fundamentals of radio operation. An interesting program, including a trip to one of Newark's broadcasting stations some time in the spring, has been set up to enliven the interest of the group. Members are encouraged to work on "ham" sets in their spare time at home.

NUCLEAR PHYSICS CLUB

The Nuclear Physics Club is composed of students who are eager to explore the scientific fields and are particularly interested in atoms and their nuclear structure. At the meetings the members have an opportunity to test their own theories through laboratory experiments. There are also round-table discussions of timely newspaper articles related to the progress of our country's nuclear physics program. The club recently organized by Mr. Carangelo is in the process of formulating problems for future research.

ARTS ON TV DELIGHTS VIEWERS

That Arts High spectacular, the Christmas tableaux, was presented on December 23 in the form of a half-hour program on NATV, Channel 13.

Participating in the program was our chorus, under the direction of Mr. Fickett, and the people of the tableaux. Among fourteen numbers sung, Kenneth Lencin, Mary Lottman, Orelene Orr, Owen Sims, Dennis Sholaki, and Marilyn Zondio did solo parts. The Introduction and Bible excerpts were read by Donald Seale.

The main purpose of the Scope is to record the events which happen in the school. The paper is published once a month and is edited by the students. The staff meetings are held in room 317, under the guidance of Mr. Rickenbacher. Students gather, write and edit news of literature, music, art, sports, features, school events, etc.

Music and Art Delight Crowd

A full house greeted the efforts of Arts High's musicians and artists at the Winter "Festival of the Arts" last Friday night.

Since the affair was a cooperative project between the music and art departments, the audience was invited to view the display of ceramics in the above case and the gallery exhibition of 39 paintings and seven pieces of sculpture.

49th Commencement Next Wednesday

Forty 4A's are expecting to get their diplomas at Arts High's 49th commencement next Wednesday. The exercises will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m.

Kathleen Karpinski, highest in scholarship in the class, will be valedictorian. The salutatory address will be delivered by Barbara Moldofsky, who is second highest.

Mr. Gannon, class advisor, will certify that the students have fulfilled requirements for graduation; and Mrs. Geller will give them their diplomas. Honors and awards will be presented by Dr. Seaster.

The candidates are as follows: Donald Albert, James Allen, Patricia Anderson, Beverly Barlow, Ronald Bonadies, Albert DeCruz, Sandra DeLucia, Anthony DiGregorio, Joseph Sikago, Anthony Donofrio, Joseph Dorbin, Valentine Gordon, Anita Grande, Richard Hilser, Marjorie Hyde, Louis Innes, Florian Jenkins, Jean Jones, Kathleen Karpinski, Edward Kleinsorgen, Ce-member, sung by Orelene Orr.

The whole senior class joined in singing their version of "Silhouettes."

In the traditional Key ceremony, Dennis Anniballi, 4B class president, accepted the Arts High key from the 4A president, and the 4A's moved into their new assembly seats.

Mr. Peelle directed the orchestra in a "carousal" number; and the program closed with the Arts High Song, sung by the student body.

ARTS HIGH ON WOOD'S "ROUND TO BE READ"

WOOD presented a broadcast by Arts High students during the week of January 6 in the series, "Round to Be Read". The four participants were: Linda Ross 1B, Andrew Yalamp 4A, and Maxine Galanty 1B, each of whom reviewed a book; and Ricardina DaSilva who was moderator.

The books were "The Tortoise" by Thomas Costain; "A Man's Statue" by Henry Viscardi Jr.; and "Paderewski" by Charlotte Kellogg. Miss Yaker sponsored the group.

The A-pin is the second highest honor that a student can attain at Arts High School. To be considered for this award, one must be in his junior year, and have shown qualities of service, character, and leadership in extracurricular activities. A-pin candidates are selected by those already holding the award and these nominees are then ratified by a majority vote of the Student Council. The Student Council presents the A-pins at each Class Day Assembly.

A new organization at Arts High this year is the Varsity Club, composed of letter winners from all varsity athletic teams. The group's purpose is to promote good sportsmanship, increase interest in athletics and conduct an annual athletic dinner. Guests at this year's annual dinner were the school's cheerleaders. Frank Votto and Richard Bates share the presidency of this club. Mr. Steisel acts as faculty adviser, with the school's coaches serving on the advisory council.

THE TYPING CLUB

TODAY'S SECRETARY

MARCH 1955 • 35 CENTS

The Typing Club, organized three years ago, is a favorite of many of the students. Members meet every Wednesday under Mrs. Lazar's able and helpful direction. Many practice typing skills, striving to increase their speed and accuracy. Others find enjoyment in the use of the Typewriter Mystery Games. By following the directions for the use of letters and spaces, students are able to type interesting pictures. Meetings are always profitable and enjoyable.

THE SEWING CLUB

A group of energetic and enthusiastic girls, who enjoy sewing for themselves and others, participate in the activities of this club. Each year they unselfishly devote much of their time to sewing articles for needy children and making items for sale at the Christmas Fair. They also find time to design and make clothes for themselves. Meetings are held every Tuesday afternoon in room 320 under the direction of Mrs. Hiller.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Carole McCoy pins Arts High's highest honor on excited Gwendolyn Sims.

Barbara Moldofsky stands before the symbolic candles of the Honor Society.

The National Honor Society is composed of high-ranking members of the junior and senior classes. Membership in the Society is granted to those students who, in the opinion of a faculty committee, have excelled in the qualities of Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service. It is the highest honor which can be awarded to a student in any high school, and it is recognized as an emblem of achievement throughout the nation. Our chapter of the National Honor Society which is named for our beloved former Vice-Principal, Miss M. Bernice Hamilton, is under the supervision of Mr. Philip C. Clamurro.

Mrs. Geller congratulates the newly inducted members of the Honor Society.

"The Adoration"

The annual Christmas Tableaux can well be called one of the most memorable occasions of the school year because it is a time for visitation by friends and alumni. All of the students participate in preparing for it either by making costumes and scenery, or by supplying vocal and instrumental music. As the five tableaux are humbly, but dramatically presented, everyone realizes the magnificent significance of Christmas. Many of the visitors feel the tingle of awe at their initial viewing of this presentation. Christmas would never be the same if the fair were omitted from the year's schedule.

CHRISTMAS FAIR

*"How about this one, Mom? It would look nice on the living room couch."—
"No dear, I think it would look better under the couch."*

"Well, his money looks good to me. You can give him the tickets," says Miss Howard to Mr. Kappstatter. You see, all the teachers at Arts High trust their students.

"Gosh, and I wanted a Cadillac. Why don't we try again?"

After leaving the solemn and colorful tableaux, parents, alumni, and friends head for the excitement and gaiety of the fair. Amidst laughter and joyful greetings guests purchase a variety of Christmas gifts. Supplies of cakes and cookies, handmade copper jewelry, ceramic ics, handsewn articles, paper mache animals, novelty pillows, and even White Elephants are rapidly exhausted. Everyone participates in this annual gala affair making it truly a schoolwide activity.

S P O R T S

Picking up the Sports' section of a newspaper we find reports and photos that tell stories of athletic achievement indicating that boys not only have fun engaging in sports but enjoy the competitive atmosphere. Our qualified athletes, noted for good sportsmanship and fair play, have earned a fine record for our school. The attitude of the team has won the admiration and respect of the entire student body.

No More Jitters

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 31—It was more than just a no-hitter that Bob Friend of the Pirates was pitching against the Dodgers on one memorable occasion last year. Protecting a 1-0 lead, he came roaring into the eighth inning with a perfect game going for him. Tension was mounting everywhere except on the mound. Friend was calm and unperturbed.

"You sense that you have something big," he explained, "but you want so desperately to win that you exclude everything else from your mind. Then Gilliam singled and Snider really hit one! That ball disappeared over the center-field fence, a shot of at least 450 feet. Yet it wasn't until I reached the bench that the shock struck me."

Players Hope To Top Record This Season.

Without the school's athletic program, our years at Arts might have been less exciting. Our athletic stalwarts have given us victories to cheer for and memories of contests to cherish through the years. Losing a game never discouraged them; instead, they fought harder.

Although only one letterman from the previous team was on the starting nine, Arts High's 1957 baseball team won nine games in seventeen starts to record the third straight winning season for the diamond squad. Steady pitching from three inexperienced hurlers helped fill the gap caused by the loss of All-Stater Ray Geiser. The mound staff was made up of John Delk, Roger Brown and Frank Votto, all lefthanders.

Lack of hitting hampered the team, with two victories being scored through the squeeze bunt. Captain Lou Inzio was the sole loss this season via graduation, so hopes of repeating last year's winning record are high.

The fine coaching of Mr. Morris has been largely responsible for the success of the team. He builds up the boys' morale, keeps them on their toes and is regarded as a friend by each of his players.

It only looks easy.

In the past few years Arts High's track team has been hampered by the lack of manpower. Despite this factor, last year's team made quite a showing for themselves, with performers such as Ronny Albert and John Brenner winning medals in the seven-team city meet. The nucleus for this year's team will be formed by Cameron Horne, John Fudge, Bob McCracken, Isaiah Cooper, Neil Carangelo, and Bob James.

Meet Record Second Best Among City Teams.

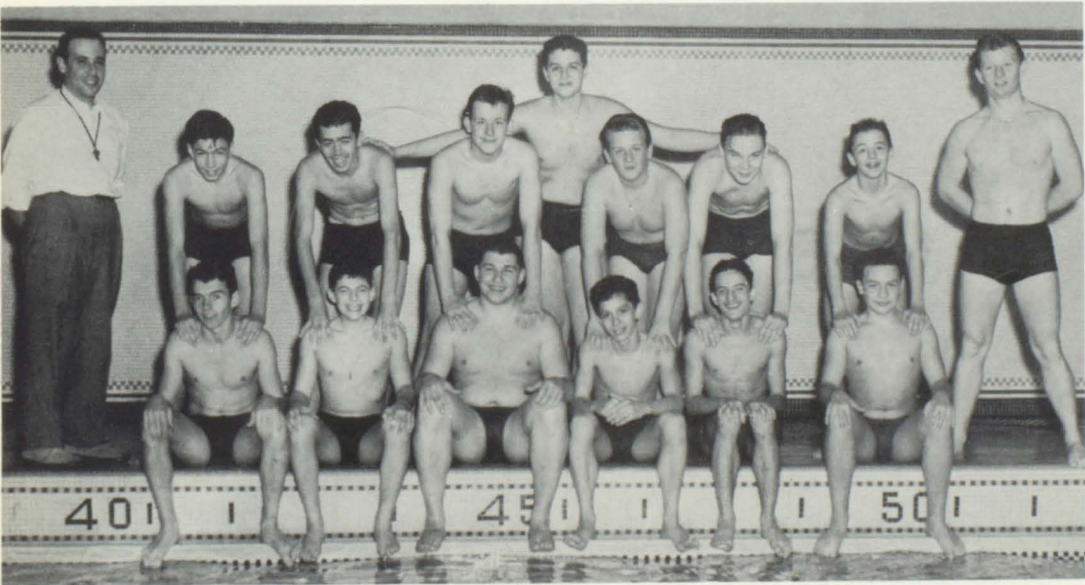

This year's tank team enjoyed one of the best seasons in Arts High's swimming history. With a nucleus of veterans and a contingent of promising newcomers, the squad sent to defeat all but one of the city teams and proved themselves by earning second place in the city meet. Loss of senior swimmers Dick Bates and Fred Travisano will be sorely felt by the mermen but the drive of the remaining veterans will partially fill the gap in what is hoped will be a team to equal this one.

BASKETBALL TEAM HAS RECORD YEAR

"Maybe if I look at the basket hard enough, the ball will go in."

"I'm the coach. We'll do the SPECIALTY!"

Our basketball team of '57-'58 has done a fine job by finishing the season with the second best basketball record in the history of Arts High School: 12 wins and 7 losses. Even though the team started out very slowly, losing 5 games out of the first 7; they stuck together and kept "digging" to win the last 13 games. Since the team managed to exceed the 500 mark, they entered the state tournament and won their initial game, the first basketball team ever to win a tournament game in our sports' history. The great coaching by Mr. George Voller and the co-operation of the boys on the team made it a most satisfying year for players and students.
